

The Fourth Dimension of Miss Eritrea Beauty Pageant 2009

Long time, contest of beauty among ladies was used to be conducted taking only the three dimensional perspective. By three dimensional means the volume of the body that occupies in a room of space. The observation made by visual inspection to the volume of the body that is visualized in three dimensional, as the contest is performed lively, reveals the beauty of the object in visual sense only. The impression of admiration created in mind is based only on the figure created by visualization.

This time another dimension is added to the contest of beauty of ladies. The fourth dimension is besides the volume of the body an intellect of the body has to be taken in consideration. This fourth dimension helps to differentiate between the beauty of a human being and the beauty of a robot. A robot can occupy a three dimensional body and with the help of dress and cosmetics can appear an extra ordinary beautiful. Therefore, if the contest of beauty among ladies is going to be conducted based only on the three dimensional figure, then people could be misled to vote for a robot disguised as human being.

The contest made for Miss Eritrea beauty pageant 2009 has taken the fourth dimension in consideration and the results proved to be self speaking. Look at the following result and judge for your self.

Selamawit Zerabruk, who has recently passed her high school examination with an outstanding GPA of 3.8, was crowned Miss Eritrea 2009 and went home with a 20,000 Nakfa in prize money. Sefora Messele and Eyobel Giorgio grabbed first and second runner-up positions and were awarded 10,000 Nakfa and 5,000 Nakfa respectively.

If it would not have been the fourth dimension judgment, Selamawit Zerabruk would have ended the fifth place. I imagined the fifth place for Selamawit Zerabruk taking only the three dimensional judgement as she is the shortest from the rest of the contestants.

I congratulate for those all of them who made this contest lively and extra ordinary beautiful spectre. Especially, I am respectful for those who introduced the fourth dimension judgment to be the decisive factor. I hope, not only in Miss Eritrea pageant, but also in other judgment we to use the fourth dimension perspective.

Finally, thank you Selamawit Zerabruk for showing us what means beauty of a lady.

God bless Eritrea
